BLAST JAPS IN LUZON FIGHT

AXIS FORCES SMASHED IN RUSSIA, LIBYA

Decisive Turning Point In European War Seen as Nazi Retreat.

REDS DESCRIBE FLIGHT

Say Germans Fight Among Themselves; British Crush Foe In Desert.

(By Associated Press)

A great, perhaps decisive, turning-point marked Europe's war on two fronts today as Britain announced officially that the Axis front in North Africa has been completely shattered and Russia declared that Adolf Hitler's invasion armies were fleeing in chaos.

A Soviet broadcast reported bitter hatred flaring among the Axis forces, asserting that Russian cavalry in the Donest basin had captured retreating German, Italian and Rumanian troops when they fell to fighting one another.

The broadcast said Rumanian soldiers joned with the Italians against the Germans.

Exactly one month to the day after Britain's desert armies struck back into Libya in their second North African offensive, British Middle East headquarters announced:

"Axis forces in Eastern Cirenaica (Libya) are now in full retreat . . . the enemy front has everywhere been broken . . . yesterday our troops relentlessly pursued the enemy for a distance of nearly 30 miles . . ."

Thus, in staccato sentences, the British command foretold the apparent beginning of the end of the African campaign, while on the Russian front, the story of Axis disaster was even greater.

Premier Joseph Stalin was quoted as describing the ill-clad, fleeing Germans as "resembling the forces of Napoleon" in the bloody retreat from Moscow in 1812.

Havas (French news agency) dispatches said the German withdrawal in the Ukraine had brought the great industrial city of Kharkov, the "Russian Pittsburgh," into the battle zone once more, and on the central front, Russian cavalrymen were report-

Restaurant Here Gives Red Cross Receipts for Day

Mansfield's Parkway restaurant, 18 Park avenue west, will turn over an entire day's receipts Monday, Dec. 29, to Richland county chapter of the Red Cross as its part in helping raise the chapter's $30,000 emergency war fund to aid American armed forces and civilians in distressed areas.

That announcement was made today by James Georgopulos, partner in business with George Margaritus, who said that every cent taken in at the Parkway cash register between 5 a. m., Dec. 29, and 5 a. m. the following day would be turned over to the Red Cross.

Georgopulos said he expected to ask the Red Cross executive office to provide their own cashiers as the restaurant wants "no part of the receipts during that particular 24 hours."

The chapter's drive was spurred today by reports of Red Cross relief work in Hawaii and the Philippines brought back to the city yesterday afternoon by Harry P. Grady, national field representative for the Red Cross in northeastern Ohio.

Grady informed the fund-raising and public information com-

Council Lays City Defense Groundwork

Maps $10,000 Program to Protect City Against Attack.

Parliamentary law held up any legal action but city council last night held a two and a half hour discussion of municipal defense precautions and laid the groundwork for a $10,000 plan to be carried out under a "gentleman's agreement."

Council decided to erect fencing about vital points in the city's water supply, to move the police radio transmitter to a more protected place, and to provide an emergency power system to maintain the city's police and fire communication lines.

Eight of the nine councilmen attended the meeting but they found that the absence of the ninth presented any efforts to pass emergency legislation.

Councilman Lester D. Hunter was not present at the meeting. Although other members waived their right to be officially informed of a special meeting at least 12 hours in advance, Councilman C. N. Shultz pointed out that all nine must do so before any legislation could be considered.

The meeting was held on a discussion basis, however, and council decided to go ahead with primary plans to protect city facilities against attack and sabotage efforts.

Letters from Police Chief Meade K. Bates and Mayor W. J. Locke were read. Both officials asked that council take immediate action to protect the water supply and the police communications system.

Mayor Locke also requested that five additional policemen be appointed for the duration of the emergency to allow police to patrol vital areas.

Councilmen Russell D. Porch and Shultz, who were appointed as a committee to study the defense problem at a "secret" session on Dec. 8, gave council estimates on the various plans advanced for protecting the city's facilities.

Shultz reported that the plans ranged in cost from $10,000 to about $50,000. Both he and Porch stated that although they believed that immediate action should be taken that they be-

BRIDGE PLAGUES COUNTY AGAIN

4 Road Workers Fired After They Complain Employes on Span Get More Money.

The North Main street bridge, a trouble spot for Richland county commissioners and County Engineer Howard Sword for more than two years, plagued them from a new angle today.

Sword revealed that the working of men long hours on the bridge job to get it finished before the holidays had resulted in the dismissal of four county road workers employed on another project.

The county engineer said the four men, apparently angered because the bridge workers were receiving more pay, were "causing trouble among the workers and refused to take orders." He said the fifth man quit after the others were dismissed.

Sword did not reveal the identity of the men who were discharged, but he said they were veteran county road workers.

The seven county workers on the bridge job are working 48 hours a week, Sword said, in order to hurry the project along.

County workers on other jobs have been placed on two shifts of 35 hours a week because that is all the work there is for them at this season of the year, Sword asserted.

He added that unexpected construction problems at the bridge would make it virtually impossible to complete it until at least three days after Christmas.

Nimitz Gets Command Of U. S. Pacific Fleet

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The United States entrusted supreme command of its Pacific fleet today to Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, one of the highest officers in the navy's top councils.

Nimitz, a forceful Texan, was ordered to sea from his post as chief of the bureau of navigation, where he was rated in service circles as second only to Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations.

Nimitz succeeds Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, who with two other top-ranking officers of the Hawaiian area was relieved of command, pending the outcome of the investigation which President Roosevelt ordered on the Pearl Harbor sneak attack.

The navy and war departments acted simultaneously last night in removing the officers whose responsibility for the lack of alert preparedness will be subject to examination by the president's investigating board.

Kimmel was the only navy man affected. The army relieved Lieut. Gen. Walter C.

ARMY PLANS TO HALT ALL ENLISTMENT

Will Raise 'Greatest Strength Needed' Entirely Through Selective Service.

HOUSE ACTS ON DRAFT

Senate Expected To Lower Age Limit To Include 19-20 Year Old Group.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Secretary Stimson announced today the war department was planning to expand the army to the greatest strength needed and would depend for the increase entirely on the selective service system.

All voluntary enlistments are to be halted as soon as "the present rush subsides," Stimson told a press conference.

An immediate increase of more than 150,000 men already has been recommended in a bill which Stimson said was on President Roosevelt's desk.

Stimson also announced:

All reserve officers not yet called to active duty have been ordered to take physical examinations, but he said this step did not mean they necessarily would be called out immediately.

After Jan. 1 all graduates of officer candidate schools will be ordered to duty immediately. Previously those so desiring have been awarded certificates of capacity and permitted to return to their former enlisted ranks.

Commanders of the four air force interceptor commands in the United States have been charged with ordering blackouts, air raid alarms, all clear signals and silencing radio signals.

Stimson said the purposes were to prevent false alarms and unnecessary interference with production. Both difficulties, he said, had been in evidence in California since the war came. The order became effective Dec. 9.

The war department is now in the process of "completing details of a general and indeterminate increase," in the army, the war secretary said.

"We are proceeding on the basis of the utmost speed consistent with efficiency," he went on. "The ultimate strength of the land forces will be determined in the

Filipino Army Hits Invaders In Vigan Area

Troops Placed Under U. S. Command; Tokyo Issues Counter Claims; Singapore Threat Grows; Allies Occupy Timor.

(By Associated Press)

Filipino jungle fighters were officially credited with a slashing victory over Japanese troops in the 12-day-old battle of Luzon island today as U. S. fighting forces in the mid-Pacific set out under fresh commanders to avenge Japan's treacherous attack on Pearl Harbor.

A bulletin from Manila headquarters of Lieut.-Gen. Douglas MacArthur said Filipino troops clashed with Japanese invaders in the Vigan area, 200 miles northwest of Manila, Monday and threw them back many miles before darkness halted the fighting.

Army headquarters also announced that the entire Philippine army is being inducted into the United States army of the Far East "in order to amalgamate all defense forces and effectuate the maximum cohesion and coordination. . . . "

In Tokyo, the Japanese naval command admitted that five "special type" Japanese submarines—apparently 41-foot, two-man midgets—failed to return from the Dec. 7 attack on the U. S. naval base at Honolulu.

JAPAN REVEALS NEW SEA BATTLE

Admits Loss of Destroyer, Claims Three Allied Submarines Sunk.

(By International News Service)

TOKYO—(By Official Japanese Wireless) — The navy section of imperial headquarters conceded today that a Japanese destroyer was lost in a new naval battle at an undisclosed point in the Pacific.

Three enemy submarines were claimed to have been sunk.

Revelation of the new sea battle came after the Japanese high command conceded that five "special" submarines and 29 Japanese planes failed to return from the sneak attack on Hawaii that opened the conflict with the United States.

(Editor's note: The term "special" submarines evidently referred to the tiny Japanese two-man under-water craft.)

The communique also conceded that an "enemy aircraft carrier, reported to have been sunk Dec. 9, is now believed to have escaped to a certain port."

Official Japanese quarters again denied that Japanese forces have occupied the Portuguese colony of Macao near Hongkong and claimed Nippon has no intention of occupying territory belonging to "friendly Portugal."

Meanwhile, the special Japanese diet session closed formally with an address by Premier Hideki Tojo, who promised to refrain from enforcing martial law

County Farmers Map 'All-Out' 1942 Production for Defense

In the first concerted move to obtain "all-out" food production in 1942 on Richland county farms, the county defense board was to meet this afternoon in Mansfield with heads of farm organizations and implement manufacturers and dealers to urge farmers to put their equipment in condition now before priorities shut off the supply of farm tools and repairs.

Invited to meet with the board were heads of the county Granges and Farm Bureau, vocational agriculture teachers, repair men, and representatives of the implement firms and supply houses.

Called by Guy L. Taylor, chairman of the county defense board, the session was scheduled for the county AAA office on North Diamond street.

"We must make farmers conscious of the need for buying these necessary repairs now to put their equipment in shape for spring and summer," Taylor said. He emphasized that parts and equipment will soon be difficult to obtain because of defense needs and prices will be higher.

Under the food-for-defense program, farmers in Richland county and throughout the middlewest are being called on to step up their production of food supplies, including meat, eggs, and milk, to make a surplus available for shipment to Great Britain and the other world democracies.

Car Owners and Even Bathing Beauties to Feel War Pinch

Mansfield and Richland county motorists who use their cars for pleasure rides and traveling short distances to work may soon feel the pinch of the war with Japan in not being able to buy new tires.

The war may also strike at golfers, tennis players, and bathing beauties by forcing manufacturers to discontinue making golf and tennis balls and rubber bathing suits and caps.

This unpleasant news was announced today by government officials who said the Japanese aggression in the Pacific had cut off 50 per cent of the United States' crude rubber supply.

The impact of the war will be brought directly to the people "back home" on Jan. 4 when the rationing of tires and other rubber supplies will begin.

Price Control Administrator Leon Henderson said if no control is exercised over tire sales, the nation will be without tires in two months. Motorists are buying tires at the rate of 4,000,000 a month now and there are only 8,000,000 tires in the United States, he said.

He asserted that the government will soon extend the present ban on tire sales from Dec. 22 to the date of the new order, Jan. 4.

Rubber supplies will be guaranteed for such necessities as fire hose, hot water bottles, syringes, jar rings, surgeon's gloves, and essential mechanical goods. It will be scarce, however, lieved the job should be done at the lowest cost possible.

The primary plan, approved in a "gentleman's agreement" calls for the erection of fences about five of the city's best wells, around the Maxwell springs pumping station and the Woodland reservoir. Steel shutters or heavy screening are to be placed on the windows and doors of the police station and the Hedges and North Main street pumping stations.

In addition to the fencing around the reservoir, plans were made to provide special covers to safeguard manholes directly connected with the water supply stored there.

Council also formulated plans for the transfer of the transmitting equipment of the police radio system from the first to the third floor of the municipal building. The radio controls, however, will be maintained at the present location. The radio room will be equipped with steel shutters and screening and with a special inquiry window to guard the radio dispatchers from attack from without.

Chief Bates and City Electrician Ernest Adams also urged that an emergency power system be established to serve the police radio, telephone and the fire signal system to insure against any power stoppage.

Council tabled discussion of the addition of policemen until a future meeting but indicated that such a move would be the next step in the defense program.

The program agreed upon will cost the city about $10,000. The larger portion of this will be needed to purchase and erect fencing and steel shutters. About $600 will be needed for the emergency power system and approximately $600 to move the police transmitter and install a vertical radio antenna.

mittee, handling the county drive, that national headquarters sent a bomber filled with supplies to Honolulu immediately after Japan's surprise attack and that work of relieving distress was in the hands of Red Cross representatives who accompanied the supplies.

All evacuation in the Philippines will be handled by the Red Cross, Grady said, as the islands have no other form of defense organization to do it. Test evacuations, he pointed out, cost $500 per 1,500 persons and in actual emergencies this cost will likely increase.

Meanwhile the task of raising funds continued with cash receipts thus far totalling approximately $6,000, an increase of $2,000 over yesterday's figures.

W. J. Spreng, chairman of the fund-raising and public information committee, issued an appeal to city and rural people alike to send their contributions to the Red Cross Emergency War Fund at 11½ West Fourth street if they have not been contacted, so that collections may be received as quickly as possible.

Emphasis was added to that appeal by Mrs. W. W. Grant, residential chairman, who said that solicitors would not make "call-backs" in the event families were not at home when the workers stopped the first time.

DRAFT BOARDS GIVEN ORDERS ON CENSORSHIP

County's Three Organizations Can't Reveal Data on Quotas and Calls.

Richland county's three selective service boards today were placed under wartime censorship regulations prohibiting release for publication of any information concerning draft calls or quotas.

Upon orders of the National Selective Service headquarters and the War Department, the state selective service headquarters in Columbus issued the following regulations, effective immediately, to the 330 local draft boards in Ohio:

1. Local boards must not release board calls or quotas or the number of men inducted from each draft board.

2. Local boards must not release lists of the names of men scheduled for induction.

3. Local boards must not release the number of man in any one classification.

4. Draft boards may notify newspapers that a draft call has been issued but they may not reveal the number of men called from the board, within the state or within the corps area.

5. Local boards must not release when or where draftees will be inducted into the army. However, information coming from the families of draftees in regard to the induction of individuals may be published.

6. Draft boards must not compare draft calls with previous calls either in percentages or in numbers.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1941.

Too late to "shop early"—buy now.

It took a long time to learn that it is more than their color that makes the Japs "yellow."

A women's bridge club in a South Carolina town has substituted Red Cross work for bridge playing—sort of clearing the decks for action.

Russia's Part In the War

HOWEVER optimistic the reports from Russia may be at the moment, or may become within the next few days and weeks, there is no escaping the fact that this is no more than one phase of the present world-wide conflict.

Russia's bitter winter weather is now co-operating with that nation's great military force in driving back the Nazi invaders and the legend of invincibility of the Hitler war machine has been shattered.

But Russian soil has not yet been cleared of enemies, nor has the Soviet policy of continued participation to the final extinction of Hitlerism been clearly defined.

Present urging that Russia join immediately in active warfare against Japan appears ill-timed as the full strength of the Red army seems best directed to the task of repelling the hordes of Hitler.

There can be no question as to the mutual hatred of Russia and Japan. Stalin has kept armies and equipment in Siberia to cope with Japan, if necessary, but has shown no inclination to open another battle front until the major operations against Germany have been completed.

Use of Russian territory for American and British bases would help greatly in the war against Japan but would probably serve to bring Russia immediately into active warfare, which, after all, is a matter for that country to decide.

What is now being quite generally realized in the United States, despite earlier quibbling, is that this country, Great Britain and Russia are three great nations temporarily associated in a common cause, and that the fate of each is closely linked with the others.

Trade Possible With South America

THERE has long been an idea that trade between the United States and the countries of Latin America was difficult because, with certain exceptions, they didn't have products we wanted to buy. Time and events are proving otherwise.

Among the items of consumers goods formerly purchased generously in Europe were Italian pottery and men's hand-clocked, fine lisle hose from France. Both are now obtained, along with a large assortment of other articles, from our South American neighbors. Pottery, blown glass in shapes unfamiliar to us, excellent leather goods, wooden articles of the many fine woods native to the southern hemisphere, hand-hammered copperware, dolls dressed in native costumes, spoons and forks with unique carvings, and other goods, ornamental or useful, are all products that these neighbors have long made and we have long ignored.

The fact that designs and treatment in many instances are new to us simply adds to the enthusiasm with which we discover that the New World has artisans as skilled and materials as lovely as the Old World. Native Indian crafts that go back to the civilization of the Incas and Aztecs for inspiration are available along with the sophisticated products of city industries.

Other relationships between the Americas are of more immediate importance, no doubt, but when the war has been won this trade relationship will prove of great value.

Detroit's Former Mayor Convicted

DETROIT'S amazing record of crookedness among public officials is carried further by the verdict of "guilty" returned against former Mayor Richard W. Reading on the charge of accepting $55,000 protection money from gamblers.

The Detroit Free Press comments editorially: "At no time was there any doubt of his guilt as a bribe-taker and racketeer politician of the very lowest order. . . . He did more than take money dishonestly—he violated the faith of a community that trusted him. . . ."

Reading's hook-up was with operators of a $10,000,000 numbers racket and convictions included several members of the Detroit police department charged with involvement in the graft conspiracy.

Whether in Detroit or other cities, official sanction or tolerance of illegal commercialized gambling operations (first floor, basement or upper floors) cannot fail to arouse suspicion of connivance. Detroit's unhappy experience may well be taken to heart by officials elsewhere who have an idea that they can play with fire without being burned.

You Can Depend On the Women

HOW do American women feel about their men marching off to war, or to the training camps in preparation for war? As individuals they react in various ways, but there is a sort of pattern.

Until lately there was a considerable lack of enthusiasm. Large numbers of women bitterly resented the drafting of their husbands, sons and brothers. That spirit came from not realizing the need of such action.

Now the attitude has changed. The danger obviously is much greater than it was before, because we are actually at war and there opens up a vista of warfare whose end we cannot see. But mothers, wives, daughters, and sweethearts can see now the peril that threatens us all, and the need of defenders for us all—including them. Their hearts may still hold back, but their heads, at least, will acquiesce, as long as they know that the process of selection is fair.

When Differences are Submerged

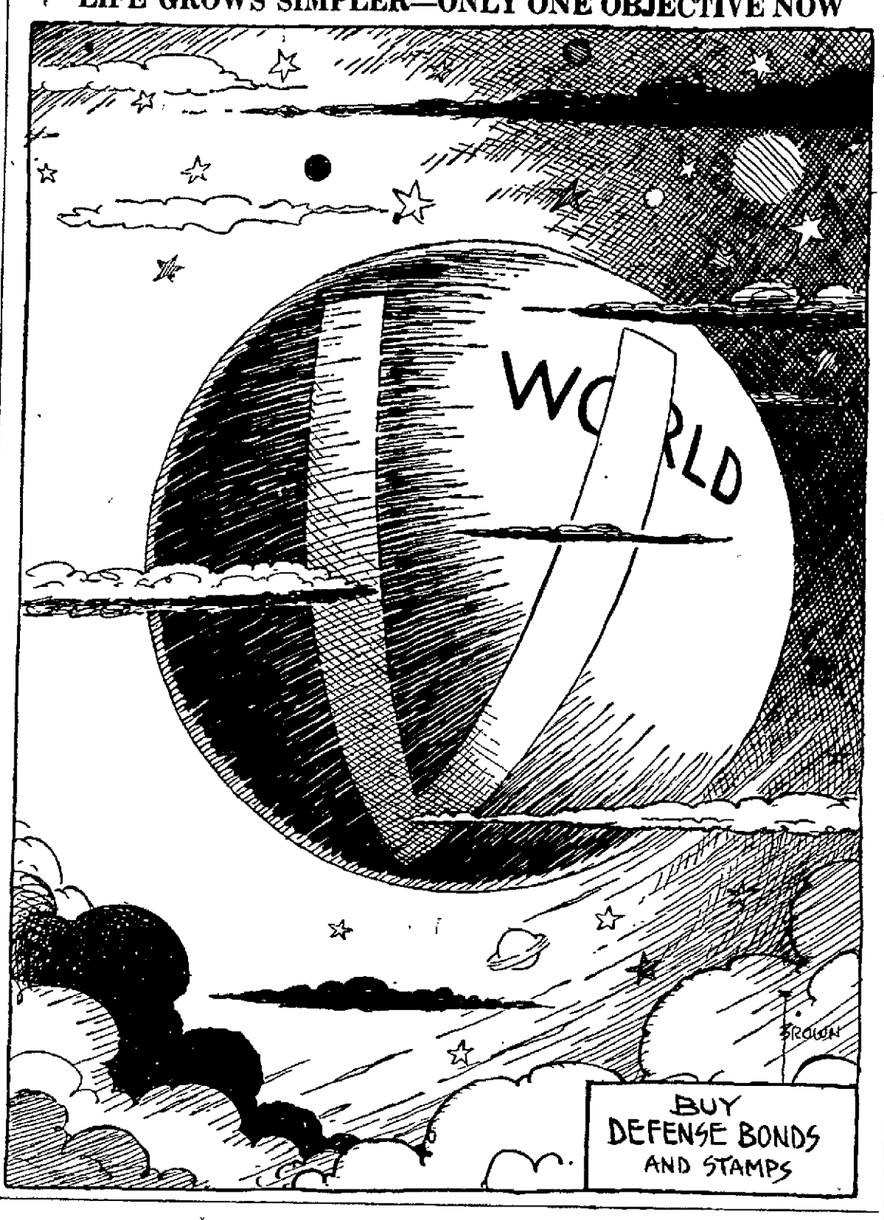
ACCORDING to Paul B. Anderson, who represents the international Y. M. C. A., the French army failed because the French people had become "atomized" so that every one was thinking only of himself. They had too much liberty and not enough brotherhood.

Russia, he adds, has survived because her people are not "atomized and individually selfish."

These wise words are remindful of Benjamin Franklin saying to his associates as they signed the Declaration of Independence: "Now we must all hang together, or we shall all hang separately."

Cheerful thought: Posterity can do no worse.

LIFE GROWS SIMPLER—ONLY ONE OBJECTIVE NOW



Young Interprets Japan's Moves

—By JAMES R. YOUNG

(Editor's Note: Seizure of the Portuguese Far Eastern island of Macao by the Japanese was long planned, according to James R. Young, International News Service correspondent who spent 12 years in Tokyo. It also gives the Japanese a vital airplane and small war vessel base within 15 miles of Hongkong.)

SEIZURE of the Portuguese island of Macao, 15 miles from Hongkong, was on Japan's war plan maps for years.

Tokyo's military strategists had studied the occupation of Kowloon, across Repulse Bay from Hongkong, isolation of the crown colony, and the landing on Portuguese territory. Macao can be used as an airplane base and for the berthing of small war vessels.

British Far East foreign policy would not now place imperial forces in such dangerous positions in Singapore and Hongkong had they used the now familiar tactics of "occupy first, talk later." The Indo-Chinese and Thai governments would have welcomed British occupation six months ago but Japanese advance agents with commercial bait, backed by bayonets, took over air bases, warehouses and political offices to bring two more Quisling territories into the Axis camp.

HONGKONG'S strength will be tested by resistance of British cannon hidden in the Gibraltar-like slopes. The Japanese will use air attacks, which the British-Canadian troops lack. The British lost their only air base, on the Kowloon side, from where Pan-American and Chinese National Aviation company passenger planes operated. The Japanese will co-ordinate air attacks with landing parties from the sea and from Macao, while their artillery in the suburbs will shell the overpopulated British city, the last remaining foreign colony on the main continent of Asia.

A reliable source advises that too much cannot be expected in the form of Chinese pressure on the Japanese at the rear of Hongkong or in the recapture of Canton. The Chinese, I am informed, are without sufficient equipment to launch a major offensive of sufficient gunfire to dislodge the well equipped Japanese forces.

Continued unfavorable reports of the Nazi campaign on the Russian front will not come to the attention of the war-weary Japanese people who by this time expected the capitulation of the Philippines and the seizure of the Hawaiian islands. Nor will the increased unrest and sabotage in Hitler-occupied areas be made known in Japan. The electric news signs on Tokyo's newspaper plants and the sirens announcing extras will herald the attack on Hongkong, the push through the Malaya peninsula's jungles, but definitely not the Red counter-offensive.

MEANTIME, the Soviets are immobilizing about one million Japanese on the Manchurian-Siberian front but taking no action until the Soviet spring offensive is underway—westward.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Sunday, Dec. 18, 1921.

First steps were taken toward organizing band in Mansfield high school, with public contributions to provide instruments.

Dudley Allen was appointed lieutenant in 83d Division, Organized Reserves.

Robert Black, Paul Harris and Ephriam Brown, students at Wharton School of Finance, Philadelphia, were home for the holidays.

Mrs. Amelia Belle Smith, widely known Mansfield nurse, died.

Mrs. R. S. Palmer, former Mansfield resident, was injured in automobile accident in Detroit.

Rev. Paul W. Koller preached dedicatory sermon at new Indianola Lutheran church in Columbus.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, Dec. 18, 1936.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Estel Ball, 139 Park Avenue east.

Inmates of city jail who were willing to wash walls at city building had their sentences cut in half.

Bert E. Kuhn was convalescing in a Berea, O., hospital following a serious illness.

Automobiles operated by John Flockenzier and Robert Smith collided at the intersection of Bowman street and Chester avenue.

Mrs. Alma Ora Walborn, 63, died at her home on West Fifth street.

Listen World!

Open Your Mind

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SHE won't read the front pages. And she shuts off the radio news. She even refuses to listen to war discussions. All of which ires Friend Husband, plenty.

"For Pete's sake," says he, in that tone reserved for domestic confidence, "how do you suppose we can keep up with the times if you won't listen to what's going on? People will begin to think we're wacky."

"I don't want to keep up with the times if it means hearing all those war horrors!" says she. "Life is hard enough without deliberately working oneself up over that ghastly mess. I can't see that it's any of my business and I think it's perfectly idiotic to waste my emotion—the way most women do—when they could have lovely music instead. I'll knit or make bundles for Britain if they're needed, which I sometimes doubt. But I refuse to make myself sick and neglect my own family by thinking about it all."

Whereupon she switches the dial to said "lovely music" . . . and he bangs down to the nearest pool hall for a current earful and gab with the Gang. So who's right?

Personally, my money's on the Big Boy, though I sympathize with the Lady. No use denying that the war news raises Cain with any decent, intelligent person's peace of mind. Most of us are sleep-walking in a nightmare these days. But is it really "useless" to weep for that distant agony . . . to shudder and rage over people we'll never see . . . dead men marking a bloody trail half way around the world?

Is it better to wrap ourselves in the comforts and safety of our own good fortune . . . turning our backs on the misery . . . denying the ugliness? I doubt it! Even for the purely selfish motive of one's own development. I'd listen to that news . . . think about it . . . open my mind and heart to its full and awful significance.

For our lives are not bounded by our personal horizons . . . by the immediate demands of our own families and friends . . . or the pressing problems of our own country.

WE ARE AS WIDE AS OUR INTERESTS . . . AS DEEP AS OUR SYMPATHIES . . . AS VITAL AS OUR OWN EMOTIONAL RESPONSE.

Sincere grief and rage and curiosity are never "wasted" . . . no matter how distant their goal. We grow with every pitying tear, with every surge of rage, with every honest question. We put aside our infancy . . . we take on the burden of maturity . . . we "come of age." And unless we do enter into that wider human plan, we cannot come of age.

Nor do we "neglect our families" if we enlarge our interests and emotions. To the contrary, we neglect them if we refuse to feel the world's agony. No woman does her job as a mother, no man is an adequate father, unless they have an emotional stake in the world's frightful struggle.

THOSE WHO DO NOT FEEL, DO NOT LIVE.

TODAY IN HISTORY

An amendment providing that "neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as punishment for crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction," was passed through congress on Jan. 31, 1865. Being duly ratified by three fourths of the states, it was proclaimed part of the Constitution on Dec. 18, 1865. This was the Thirteenth Amendment.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Surrender of Philippines Would Not Be Major Calamity, Claimed

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—There was a stirring unrecorded incident preceding the speedy vote for war against Germany and Italy by the house of representatives. It was a dramatic illustration of the kind of national unity that should prevail throughout the nation in these critical days.

An hour before the house met to vote on the war resolutions, three southern and one western congressmen decided to obtain time for a speech by the lone Negro member of congress — dignified Representative Arthur Mitchell of Illinois.

The three southerners were Representatives Bayard Clark and Carl Durham of North Carolina, and Carl Vinson of Georgia. The westerner was Representative Orville Zimmerman of Missouri. Durham initiated the idea while talking to colleagues about the earlier congressional debate on the declaration of war against Japan.

"There was one thing wrong," said the North Carolina congressman. "Spokesman from all sections and creeds spoke, but Arthur Mitchell was not called on. National unity should mean unity of all Americans regardless of religion, color, sex or party. American Negroes are fighting in this war for their country like everyone else. I think Mitchell, whom we all respect, should have been asked to speak.

"You are absolutely right," echoed Clark also of North Carolina.

"Yes," said Missouri's Zimmerman, "and I propose we do something about it. Let's make sure that Mitchell is called on today."

Zimmerman immediately got in touch with Vinson of Georgia, chairman of the naval affairs committee, who enthusiastically approved the proposal and volunteered to speak to Mitchell about it. Beaming with pleasure, the Negro congressman said he would be very happy to make a speech.

"That will be easy for me," he said. "I've been a strong supporter of the president's foreign policies all along."

At the last moment, however, the plan was abandoned. For propaganda purposes in Europe, in view of the grandstand staging by Hitler and Mussolini in declaring war against the U. S., government leaders decided to act on the war resolutions without any discussion.

Litvinov's Beverage.

WHEN Maxim Litvinov held his first press conference as Soviet ambassador to Washington, there was a dramatic stage setting. . . . Before he entered the room, flood lights were set up, spotting the ambassador's desk, on which rested a shiny silver thermos jug and glass. . . . Behind the desk, a bronze bust of Lenin. . . . On the walls, oil paintings of sleigh scenes, dark forests, and bright-eyed peasants. . . . The ambassador entered, the newsmen rose. . . . He sat, and two stenographers prepared to take his every word. . . . Before speaking he removed the stopper from the bright thermos jug to pour himself a drink. . . . He poured—but instead of water, a stream of yellow fluid filled his glass. . . . All during the press conference he sipped with the relish of a man who, after days in the desert, has reached an oasis at last. . . . It was orange juice. . . . In the Soviet Union, oranges are so rare that most peasants don't know the word.

Discuss Philippines.

TEN years ago in the army war college, the basic principle regarding war in the Pacific was surrender of the Philippines after about 30 days of battle. It was estimated that Corregidor, the fortress outside Manila, could hold out for several months, if necessary, but the rest of the islands would be taken by the Japanese.

In the last two years, however, thanks to the Philippine army and the assiduous labors of General MacArthur, the situation has improved considerably. And it was estimated that the Philippines had a fair chance to hold out much longer—perhaps indefinitely.

However, the attack at Hawaii has changed the situation. The injury to the fleet at Pearl Harbor may mean not only that no U. S. ships could go to the rescue of the Philippines, but also that it would be difficult to convoy ammunition to beleaguered Manila.

Furthermore, it would be difficult to get new airplane reinforcements to MacArthur because the island stepping stones to Guam, Wake and Midway are in jeopardy.

Therefore the American public should reconcile itself to the possibility of the eventual fall of the Philippines, when MacArthur's supplies of ammunition and airplanes are exhausted.

This would not be a major calamity, since American naval forces can always base on Singapore and the Dutch East Indies. But it would be a big blow to American prestige. Furthermore it would remove the Philippines as a base for harassing Japanese troop ships en route to the major war theater—Singapore.

Note—Much more important effect of the Hawaii raid was that it could diminish Japanese fear of attack from us. As a result the Japanese would need to keep few warships to guard their home shores; could send them down to the south Pacific.

Capital Chaff.

THE White House has ordered night and day work on the construction of an underground bomb shelter. It will permit the president to work underground during air raids, and will also have a connection with the treasury for the benefit of Secretary Morgenthau. . . . The state department will soon issue a new Black List of firms doing business with the Axis. On it will be some American citizens who failed to heed repeated warnings. . . . Heavy-browed "Denny" Lewis brother of John L. and head of the United Construction Workers, is taking no chances since the slugging his henchmen staged at the recent CIO convention in Detroit. "Denny" has a hulking bodyguard close at hand in his Washington office. At Detroit, "Denny" was always surrounded by a guard of strong-arm men. . . . Insiders are crediting Federal Security Administrator Paul McNutt with an important victory in the appointment of Watson B. Miller as head of the Old Age Insurance Bureau of the Social Security Board. Miller, close friend of McNutt and former rehabilitation director of the American Legion, replaces John J. Corson, who was shunted to another job at $1,000 a year less pay.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—At an interfraternity dinner at the Commodore the other night, Lowell Thomas, toastmaster, arose and said, "As I greet you this evening, I am aware that there are probably more important people among you in the audience than there are on the speaker's platform. And as an example, I'll point out a few. Yonder, for instance, sits the man who lifted Beta Theta Pi out of obscurity last year. The only trouble was there weren't enough Betas in the country to do any good."

WHEREUPON Wendell Willkie, grinning like a shaggy, whitetied bear, arose and cried, "Lowell, for the last 30 years I have been simply amazed at the unmitigated gall of Kappa Sig." As Thomas happens to be a Kappa Sig, this produced a great howl. Thomas then passed to other pleasantries by introducing the speakers but getting their fraternities scrambled.

Among these speakers was the national commander of the American Legion, and the heads of two great universities. As each speaker rose, he gravely acknowledged the applause, then prefaced his remarks by properly identifying his fraternal affiliations. It was one of the high lights of a rich, full-bodied evening.

THAT'S a smart little move on the part of that curio-art shop proprietor's in Sixth Avenue. He sells paintings, curios and biographies of the great composers. To make his windows more attractive, he has in them tiny busts of Brahms, Tchaikovsky, Chopin, Beethoven, Wagner, and all the other musical greats. They're smart little gadgets to stick around on your library shelves.

BILLY ROSE thinks Stuttering Sam is the ideal Broadway showgirl. "The fact that she stutters," says Bill, "does not interfere in the least with the conventional show girl pattern, for these young ladies, like children, should be seen but not heard."

Sam was merely tall when she came up from Fort Worth to work for Billy Rose, but now she is a full fledged Broadway institution. She can glance out over the crowds at the Diamond Horseshoe and identify more faces than Billy can. Just how tall is Sam anyway? Tall enough. She's six foot one.

A Farmer's Diary

Timmenghelas

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

LAST summer a big white Wyandot hen hid her nest on the slope and came off with five chicks. Left to herself, she raised them, every one, and one by one we ate them, until only a plump young rooster survived. I had him marked for Thanksgiving.

But when, on Thanksgiving morning, I went to the barn, ax in hand, no Wyandot rooster could I find. He had disappeared. I came back into the house out of breath and inquired, "Have any of you children seen that rooster lately?"

I noticed the two older children exchange glances and then the boy said soberly, "He was right there last night when we shut up the chickens. Wait a minute, Daddy—"we'll go and help you look." So part of us went above in the barn, and part below, and we looked again—but with no success. "We'll have to kill two of the smaller ones," I said at last—and we did so.

Our chicken dinner was later than we had planned, but everyone ate with relish.

Next morning, even before I was up, I heard a lusty crow, and when I looked, there was that hunted rooster, as big as life, standing on a post with his beak wide open and his neck arched proudly. I thought I saw a glint of mischief in his eye as he crowed again, then hopped down and began to cluck vociferously to the hens of his harem.

The children greeted him joyously on sight and laughed in their sleeves at me, when my back was turned. "Let's name him Timmenghelas," suggested the oldest boy. "That was the name of a Wyandot Indian chief in a book at school. He's a Wyandot, too—and a pretty slick chief, don't you think so, Daddy?"

I muttered that I wasn't sure about that—but that I knew one family that had too many pets. I didn't tell that in the tight room of the granary, that morning, I had found where a fowl had spent the night. And not by accident, for right near by was a big ear of yellow corn and a tin can half full of water.

FILIPINO ARMY BLASTS JAPS IN VIGAN AREA

Threat To Singapore Grows; Allies Occupy Portuguese Island Possession.

however, asserted that Japanese troops operating from Aparri, 250 miles north of Manila, had seized a U. S. army air base and were driving southward while another Japanese spearhead from Legaspi, 250 miles southeast of Manila, was thrusting north in a vast pincer movement against the Philippine capital.

The Tokyo high command claimed, furthermore, that the Philippines' air defenses had been virtually knocked out as a result of Japanese bombing attacks on flying fields.

In the Far East, Britain's struggle to halt the Japanese drive toward Singapore took a darkening turn as British and Indian troops were acknowledged to have withdrawn below the southern border of Kedah, apparently yielding the 115-mile-long Malayan peninsula state to the Japanese.

Kedah state lies opposite Penang island, and London quarters said the withdrawal from Kedah meant that Penang—second only to Singapore in importance throughout Malaya—was "gone." The island is about 65 miles south of the Thailand frontier, jumping-off spot of the Japanese invasion.

British headquarters said defense forces were being reorganized south of the Kriar river, on the southern border of Kedah, after disengaging operations during the night.

With Singapore itself admittedly in grave danger, the Allies took steps to block Japan's spreading thrusts into the South Pacific, landing troops on the Portuguese island of Timor, between Java and Australia.

The Netherlands government in London, announcing the landing on Timor, emphasized the island's importance as a potential Japanese submarine base "from which attacks could be made on Allied territory and communications."

The announcement said Portuguese authorities in Timor had objected to the landing but that "Portuguese sovereignty remains intact."

Combined Dutch and Australian forces apparently joined in occupying the island, which lies at the eastern tip of the Dutch East Indies.

In the siege of Hongkong, Britain's No. 2 citadel in the Far East, defenders of the island city flatly rejected a second Japanese demand for surrender amid a hail of bombs and shells.

Domei, the Japanese news agency, said Japanese bombers set military facilities in Hongkong afire this morning, and Japanese batteries on the Kowloon mainland, across a mile-wide channel, were reported heavily shelling the city of more than 1,000,000 population.

Chief hopes for Hongkong's survival in British hands were based on three possibilities:

1. Broad anti-Axis successes in other far eastern fighting.

2. An early increase in anti-Japanese aerial and naval strength in the Far East.

3. Success of tenacious Chinese troops, attacking the Japanese rear and flank some 28 miles north of Hongkong.

Philippine police tightened their watch for fifth column activities and warned nationals of pro-Axis countries against any suspicious activities.

Report Nazis Offer Ships To Japan

LONDON — (INS) — The Daily Mirror said today that Germany has offered its powerful super battleship Tirpitz and its commerce-raiding pocket battleship Luetzow to the Japanese for service in the Pacific.

The newspaper said there has been no reliable information received of the ships having reached the Pacific. It declared that Admiral Raeder, commander of the German fleet, probably made the offer to the Japanese at the recent Axis council of war.

Report Japanese Abandon 5 Provinces

CHUNGKING, China — (AP) — Official Chinese dispatches said tonight that Japanese forces had abandoned five districts in Shansi province, North China, giving up territory held for three years in order to bolster their offensive on new Pacific fronts.

Sub Attacked Off Pacific Coast

SAN FRANCISCO—(UP)—An attack on an enemy submarine off the north Pacific coast, revealed by the Second Air Force command prodded the west coast to an even greater defense effort today.

Maj. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, commander, gave no details of the attack—when or where it occurred, or whether the submarine had been sunk. The announcement was incorporated in a letter of praise to his Second Air Force for the "alertness and prompt action of the airplane commander and crew of a squadron" in attacking it.

The announcement, nevertheless, served to verify the persistent reports that enemy craft have been operating off the Pacific coast. While army authorities refused to discuss those reports, there were many who believed unidentified aircraft heard over San Francisco and Los Angeles had come from a carrier somewhere off the coast.

Harmon's command covers the 11 western states and Alaska, and thus the attack on the submarine may have been made "anywhere west of Lake Union (Seattle)," said a spokesman for the Second Interceptor Command.

Santa and the WHITE ROSE

The Story So Far: The Kingdom of The Wide Rivers is beset by a witch who can kill all animals. The King sends for Carl, a peasant's son, and Santa rushes to Carl's aid.

Chapter Sixteen

THE MAGIC PIPE HELPS AGAIN

THIS second witch, you remember, had the power to kill any bird or animal on which she looked. She flew from one farm to another and lit for a moment in the barns. The horses and cows and pigs fell over and died.

That morning there was dreadful consternation on all the farms. Men hurried to the nearest villages to ask for help. But no one knew what to do.

Only the King had an idea. He thought of Carl and he dispatched the messenger to the next kingdow to ask if Carl would return. Carl had barely reached home when the messenger arrived. But he hurried to King Harald, extremely worried. Harald patted Carl on the shoulder and then drew a pipe—the magic pipe—from his pocket, and said, "Carl, this might be of help to you. Take it with you."

Carl thanked him, shouted for a fresh horse, and set out again as fast as he could gallop.

As he rode he thought, "I must stop at the tavern and find the old man again. He may help me a secand time." But that night when he stopped at the tavern no one had seen the old man. Carl went to bed troubled.

He need not have worried. Santa was hurrying there as fast as he could. He was late because he had tried to finish 50 toy carts he was making. He was just screwing wheels into place when he looked up and saw the vine in the window break into bloom again.

* * *

"HO, Mrs. Santa," he shouted into the kitchen where Mrs. Santa was putting up cranberry jell. "The vine is in bloom again. I must go, but I declare, at this rate I won't have enough toys finished by Christmas. Help me finish these."

"Show me what to do," said Mrs. Santa. "Dear me, you do run around so."

That midnight Santa hung away his red suit, which you and I know, and put on an old brown one so Carl wouldn't guess who he was. Then he whistled for his reindeer and hurried to the tavern where Carl slept. No one was up, so Santa sat in a bench by the fire and dozed, and that's where Carl found him in the morning.

"What good luck," said Carl. He shook Santa's hand so hard that Santa puffed. "Have breakfast with me," Carl said.

"H-m-m. Breakfast," said Santa. "Does that mean pan-cakes?"

Carl chuckled. "It means anything you want." So the two had a big breakfast. The tavern keeper worried aloud to them, "Last night the witch passed through here and all my hens are dead."

Carl said nothing, but when they left Santa slipped a gold piece under his plate for the tavern keeper. Then Carl and Santa galloped swiftly to the castle to tell the King they had returned to help a second time.

"Carl," said the King sadly, "it seems we will never be finished with trouble."

SANTA'S eyes twinkled because he knew what should be done. He asked, "I'd like a smoke. Has anyone a pipe?"

The King, absent-mindedly, reached for a pipe on a near-by table. But Carl's face lit up excitedly, "Here, here," he said, "King Harald gave me this. He said it might help." Now, of course, Santa knew the pipe Carl handed him well. He had made it. But he pretended to admire it.

Santa turned the pipe in his hand. His face was solemn, but his eyes twinkled as he rubbed the pipe bowl slowly. Suddenly the little figure of the miner stepped down from the pipe bowl onto Santa's hand.

The little man said, "There is a cave in the mountain behind the castle. On the floor lies a fine, white quartz dust which looks like sand. The one who will capture this witch will have the willpower to wake her and then, with his eyes closed, throw the white dust over her. If he opens his eyes he will be blind."

Carl stood up smiling. He said, "Show me the cave."

TOMORROW: A second witch is captured.

AXIS FORCES SMASHED IN RUSSIA, LIBYA

Decisive Turning Point In European War Seen as Nazi Retreat.

ed to have chased German troops to within 19 miles of Orel, 200 miles south Moscow.

Everywhere along the 1,200-mile front from Leningrad to the southernmost Ukraine, the Germans were declared to be falling back in a retreat unparalleled since Hitler sent his armies smashing through Belgium, Holland and France more than 18 months ago.

On the Moscow front, the British radio said the Germans had fled from Mozhaisk, a key center 57 miles west of the capital, and white-helmeted Soviet shock troops were reported imminently threatening the recapture of German-held Volokolamsk, 65 miles northwest of Moscow.

"We can't keep up with the Germans, they are running so fast," Red army soldiers were quoted as complaining.

Soviet dispatches said that the Nazis were offering only rear-guard resistances in their flight over the snow-packed battlefields, sacrificing infantry and mortar detachments in delaying actions, and that there was no sign yet of any attempt to make a stand on a new line.

In the north, around long-besieged Leningrad, the Finns reported that the Red army had shifted the weight of its offensive against them, with Soviet troops attacking along the whole eastern sector north of Lake Onega.

Advices reaching London said that the Russians had smashed the Finnish line between Lake Ladoga and Lake Onega and that the million defenders of Leningrad defense armies had been freed from German pressure on the south and west, and possibly meant that the Nazis were giving up the siege of the old czarist capital.

A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters, silent on land operations, said merely that Nazi aerial assaults had inflicted heavy losses on Russian troops and tanks.

Meanwhile, armies of revolt were on the march against the German conquerors.

A British broadcast said messages from southeast Europe reported that Yugoslav and Greek "freedom armies" had linked up across the mountains of southern Yugoslavia and northern Greece, and were fighting the Germans in a unified campaign.

Report Axis Troops Fight Each Other

NEW YORK —(INS)— "Retreating Axis troops fleeing from pursuing Russian cavalry in the Donetz Basin are fighting among themselves." The Russian radio reported from Sverdlovsk today in a broadcast heard by NBC.

The Russian broadcast added:

"Italian units boarding a westbound train were forcibly ejected when a German regiment arrived at the scene, just as the train was about to pull out.

The scuffle began to assume the proportions of a shooting free-for-all when Rumanian soldiers arrived and joined the fighting on the side of the Italians.

"Finally Russian cavalry forced its way into the town and captured the squabbling Allies along with the train and hundreds of trucks loaded with supplies."

CONSIDERS U. S. FOREIGN LEGION

General Staff Member Says Plan Hinges on Draft Law.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The United States may have a foreign legion in the war!

This was disclosed to the senate military affairs committee by Brig. Gen. Wade H. Haislip of the army general staff.

"It may be that we will form a foreign legion, as other countries have had, made up of Free-Frenchmen, English, Russians and so forth." The action, he indicated, would be dependent upon revision of the draft law.

Mansfield Area Youths Bound for Navy Service

These 14 youths from the Mansfield area were on their way to service in the navy and the naval reserve today, after the Mansfield navy recruiting office had accepted their enlistments. First row, left to right, James Morgan, Butler; Irving J. Weyant, Mt. Vernon, O.; C. J. Sholtz, recruiting officer; George O. Case, Galion; Roger C. Follin, Fredericktown; second row, Charles I. Devers, Shelby; Clifford Parsons, Lakeville; Clarence R. Oyster, Bellville; Clyde A. Diehl, Fredericktown; third row, Walter H. Sawdey, Butler; Don L. Campbell, Bucyrus; Lionel L. Shope, Mt. Vernon; Roger E. Keefer, Ashland, and Joseph F. Sherbundy, Willard.

GIVES DATA ON TWO-MAN SUBS

Vinson Says They Were Built Especially for Hawaii Attack.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Chairman Vinson (D., Ga.) of the house naval committee said today that the two-man submarine captured from the Japanese in their raid on Pearl Harbor appeared to have been built expressly for that mission.

Vinson said preliminary examination by naval experts indicated the Japanese had designed it to slide under anti-submarine nets. Two of the tiny craft were used in the attack, and the naval chairman said it appeared certain that they had been transported across the Pacific aboard a surface ship and launched within their range.

JAPAN REVEALS NEW SEA BATTLE

Admits Loss of Destroyer, Claims Three Allied Submarines Sunk.

"which tends to hamper all-out wartime efforts."

Admission of the Japanese losses in the Hawaii attack coincided with a new batch of extravagant claims by imperial headquarters, including a reiteration of previous assertions that the United States Pacific fleet based at Hawaii had been "annihilated."

(Editor's note: The report on damages suffered by American warships at Pearl Harbor released by Navy Secretary Frank Knox demonstrated that all such claims are completely unfounded. The Japanese obviously are putting forward these claims for propaganda purposes.

(The Japs have been using the same technique in their campaign against Hongkong. Japanese planes have even dropped pamphlets on Hongkong claiming Nipponese forces have invaded India, although such claims are pure fantasy.)

The navy section of Japanese imperial headquarters said that "aerial observation disclosed the annihilation of the United States Pacific fleet as well as the United States air force based at Hawaii."

This announcement claimed aerial photographs taken by the Jap navy disclosed the United States casualties include "five battleships sunk, including one of the California class, one of the Maryland class, one of the Arizona class, one of the Utah class and another of an unidentified class."

"Also," the Japanese imperial command asserted, "two heavy cruisers and one oil tanker were sunk.

Imperial headquarters also set forth the claim that 450 American aircraft had been machine gunned and set on fire, that 14 planes had been shot down and that "many others" had been damaged in the battle of Hawaii —when Japan opened her sneak attack on the United States.

WAR TO PINCH ON WIDE SCALE

Car Owners, Golfers and Even Bathing Beauties Will Feel Restrictions.

for other articles considered less necessary.

Fearing that the war in the East Indies will shut off the nation's supply of tin, the OPM today took over the total supply in the United States and prepared to ration it for necessary purposes.

Shortages of sugar also is anticipated unless the American forces are able to drive the Japs out of the Philippines and other Pacific sources soon.

The tire rationing program will be administered by state and local boards which are being set up by the office of price administration. After Jan. 4, would-be tire purchasers will have to convince those boards that they fall within an "eligible list" group, to be announced later by Henderson, before they can receive a card entitling them to a tire.

Monthly tire sales quotas will be determined by the government on the basis of the amounts of crude rubber which can be used in the production of new tires. Then, these quotas will be broken down into state and county quotas on the basis of commercial vehicle registrations.

While some production of new truck tires will be permitted, and four new tires may be placed on new autos, Henderson said that "for the time being production of new passenger car tires will be almost entirely eliminated."

The rationing plan also would fix prices for new tires, control sales of retreaded tires and the rationing of tires, and carry with it all legal sanctions possessed by the OPM's priorities division for strict enforcement.

ARMY PLANS TO HALT ALL ENLISTMENT

Will Raise 'Greatest Strength Needed' Entirely Through Selective Service.

light of the strategic situation as it develops.

"We are trying to set up machinery by which the army can be increased steadily but without fixing limits which might have to be changed.

"We are trying to do it with the least disturbance to industry and the entire economic set-up.

"In the light of this purpose the age limits in the new selective service legislation now before congress is important. That is why we ask that the minimum age limit be set at 19."

Administration leaders were confidently predicting senate approval of the legislation making men of 19 and 20 liable for military service, though the house had refused to lower the induction age from 21.

Although President Roosevelt backed up the recommendations of army experts for the 19-year service base, the house late yesterday voted to make only men from 21 through 44 subject to actual military duty, although approving registration of all men from 18 through 64.

Under the present law, only men from 21 through 35 can be drafted.

Before shouting unanimous approval of its measure, the house rejected, 173 to 113, a compromise proposal to bring 20-year-olds into the draft. A previous attempt to make the minimum 19 was smothered, 175 to 53.

At the other end of the capitol, Democratic Leader Barkley predicted that the senate would give swift sanction to the bill requested by the administration, 19-year clause and all.

It seemed probable that the final form of the legislation would be worked out by a joint conference committee of the two chambers. Senator Pepper (D.-Fla.), an administration supporter, told reporters he did not believe the senate would be willing to compromise on a 20-year draft minimum.

The government will become hard-boiled about drafting husbands whose wives are self-supporting, the senate was told today, as military leaders made known their view that this country must have an army much larger than 4,000,000 men.

"Four million men isn't an army today," Brig.-Gen Wade H. Haislip, assistant chief of staff for personnel, declared to the senate military committee. The army will be expanded as rapidly as equipment can be obtained, he said, "without any set number in view."

A system of allowances for the families of married men inducted into service was advocated by Brig.-Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the selective service system. He said the attitude of draft boards toward dependency and hardship cases must "inevitably" become tighter.

However, about 1,000 farm boys inducted into the army will be returned to the farm this spring, he announced, adding that induction of many farm youths would threaten vital agricultural production.

Hershey's proposed system of allowances would be modeled, he explained, on the World war practice of requiring a selectee with dependents to make an allotment from his pay to support his family, which the government matched with an allowance.

PLEA CONSIDERED

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A plea for dismissal of 36 defendants accused of mail fraud in connection with the sale of cemetery lots by Forest Glen, Inc., has been taken under advisement by Feleral Judge Robert R. Nevin.

DRAFT PLANS

Labor, Industry Prepare Own Non-Strike Suggestions.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt's industry-labor conference recessed after an hour's session today so that representatives of labor, management and government could meet separately to draft recommendations for carrying out the president's request for a non-strike agreement for the duration of the war.

The conferees agreed to resume as a full 26-man board at 2 p. m. Chairman William H. Davis told reporters that each group would submit its own proposals at that time.

BUY ALARMS

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Sixty-six air raid alarm devices will be installed throughout the county, 20 of them in the city, after an experimental test with two now mounted on the radio tower at Central police station. The test is scheduled for 2 p. m. Sunday.

Announcing the plans, Mayor Frank J. Lausche said also that 3,100 citizens now signing up with the civilian defense organization would begin their training as volunteer fire fighters next week, and will be attached to the 59 regular fire companies.

BLOOMVILLE MAN UNABLE TO EXPRESS ENOUGH APPRECIATION FOR BEE BEE'S

Declares the Great Root and Herb Diuretic, Bee Bee's, Relieved Prostatitis, Kidney Trouble, Inflammation of Bladder, Aches and Pains.

"After I had taken the first bottle of Bee Bee's I felt an improvement in my condition and my second bottle gave me wonderful relief," says Mr. William Waltz, of Bloomville, Ohio.

MR. WM. WALTZ

"Although I was working every day and I wasn't what you would call sick, I had sharp pains in my hips, legs, arms, shoulders and feet. At times it was hard for me to bend over or raise my arms. The trouble was worse as soon as I got up in the morning and I thought I had an attack of rheumatism. My neck would become stiff and I couldn't figure out the cause. It is possible that my kidneys were disordered causing most of pains through my system. I didn't rest well at night and at times my energy wasn't up to the usual mark. My nerves were unsteady and I felt generally out of sorts.

"Bee Bee's relieved the pains in my hips, legs, arms and in other parts of my body. Now I can raise my arms or bend over without any distress and the stiffness has left my neck. My kidneys are better and my nerves are steady. I feel better and sleep better and work better. Bee Bee's win my highest praise. My wife took Liverine and received satisfactory benefits from it."

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I DID NOT need to be clairvoyant to guess what Mary was thinking. The taste of her fragrant, delicious cup of coffee was suddenly bitter at the vision which had come to her of Marion, possibly hungry, thirsty and cruelly treated.

I had experienced the same vision myself, but common sense had provided an answer to my qualms, and I passed it along to Mary.

"I do not think she is being ill-treated at all, as far as her physical comfort goes, Mrs. Ticer, the only one to see her, as you know, reported that she was palpably frightened, and that her voice seemed drained of life, as it would be from terror and anxiety, but she saw no evidences of privation.

"As a general thing, you know," I went on, feeling guiltily didactic, "kidnapers do not ill-treat their victims."

Memory Stirring.

She flushed, raised her cup again to her lips and drained it.

"Let me give you another cup," I said.

She held out the cup and, as I filled it, I saw her hand tremble as if she had been seized with a sudden chill.

"Do you remember how Marion used to love coffee?" she asked.

Something in her manner made me take a tight grip on myself. Somewhere within her the deeps of memory were stirring.

"Indeed I do," I said, making my voice as casual as possible, and pausing between my phrases for a sip of tea. "I also remember how she rebelled — not flagrantly, of course — against her mother's stricture that she must have but one cup a day."

A Reminiscence.

"I'll bet you never knew how she got around that, did you?" Mary asked. "I'd forgotten all about it until just now, but it all comes back so clearly."

I hardly dared to breathe, much less speak, for fear I would jangle the memory chord she was sounding. But I knew she was waiting for me to say something and managed a careless, "You win your bet. I never knew anything about it."

"I'm afraid I suggested it to her," Mary said, and I noted with satisfaction that she was not linking this memory with the one for which we both were seeking.

"But she did all the work," she went on. "She went down to the variety store and picked up the biggest cup she could find—one of those immense thick white things they used to sell—then six of the smallest teacups.

Childhood Picnics.

"She was very conscientious in measuring the capacity of the cups, and found that six of the small ones equaled the big one. Thus that gave her two cups three times a day, if she wished, or, as more generally happened, none at some meals and extra ones at others, especially at the picnic lunches she used to fix for me in that tiny summer house at Marvin. Remember?"

"Yes, I remember," I said with a sudden vivid memory of the old summer house, in which a number of dramatic moments of my own life had been staged.

"I am ashamed to confess," Mary went on, "that those picnic lunches used to bore me to tears—"

She paused and gave me an abashed glance, which I hastened to answer.

"But you never let Marion guess that," I said with assurance.

"Why, of course not. What kind of heel would I have been to hurt her? She was the sweetest, dearest thing on earth!"

She choked on the words, and I was conscious of a lump in my own throat.

"How she used to revel in those lunches!" she went on. "She made a regular drama of them. It was there that she inveigled me into making that code book for her, and she never tired of thinking out situations in which we would send messages to each other. I remember once—"

She stopped, caught at her throat, and stared at me.

"Auntie Madge," she faltered, "I think I remember now about that 'something blue.'"

Church Society Holds Meeting

Miss Helen Brown, Park avenue west, was hostess for the meeting of the Women's Missionary society of the United Presbyterian church, held Wednesday afternoon. Associate hostess was Mrs. J. C Boyd. Fourteen members and two guests, Mrs. Dale Friday and Miss Josephine McFarland, were in attendance.

Mrs. W. C. Shane, president, conducted the business session. Devotions were led by Mrs. Friday. Capt. Richard L. Gutterman of the Volunteers of America gave an interesting talk on his work. Luncheon was served buffet style from a long table attractively decorated with flowers and lighted tapers. Mrs. Frank Williams and Mrs. W. W. Crouch will be hostesses for the next meeting to be held on Jan. 21 at the Williams home on Highland avenue.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, December 19.
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

WHILE affairs of the young and socially or romantically inclined may be very active and move briskly to very happy denouements, yet business and all workaday interests may be under adverse astral conditions. There is a peculiar strange or irregular cast to rather upsetting or devastating situations which may call for astute, watchful and resolute behavior. This menace seems to be involved with elders.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year of much gaiety, activity and youthful interests, perhaps of a romantic nature or kindred happy pursuits, while in business there may be signs of disintegrating and surprising circumstance arising from a curious, irregular or foreign source. Guard well all unfamiliar contracts and plans especially in writings, travel, new ventures and transactions with agencies. Elders, friends, as well as strangers are suspect.

A child born on this day while genial, lively and socially inclined, with good intent and purpose, yet may be erratic, unconventional and get into peculiar irregularities.

ISALY GIRLS' PARTY.

Office girls of the Isaly Dairy company enjoyed a Christmas party and gift exchange recently at the home of Miss Elizabeth Cole, 394 West Fifth street. Games and contests were held with prizes in the latter going to Aldrane Turk, Evelyn Gresmer, Dora [illegible], Evadene Lindley. Christmas decorations were used on the table when lunch was served.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

CONSIDER THE DANGERS

AN ARMY which was splendidly prepared for carrying out an attack, but had studied nothing about defensive tactics, would be seriously up against it if the enemy launched a good counter-attack of its own. So it is with a declarer. If he concentrates solely on the moves which bring tricks to himself and thinks nothing about the precautionary measures which prevent the defenders from taking tricks, he will come to plenty of grief.

	♠ K 9 3 ♥ 8 3 2 ♦ A Q 10 9 6 ♣ 7 4
♠ A Q 5 ♥ Q J 10 7 6 4 ♦ 5 4 ♣ Q 6	W. N. E. S.	♠ 7 6 2 ♥ 9 5 ♦ K 8 2 ♣ J 9 8 5 3
	♠ J 10 8 4 ♥ A K ♦ J 7 3 ♣ A K 10 2

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	1 ♥	2 ♦	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 NT

That bidding was furnished at several tables of a duplicate game. Let's survey the play at two of them, after West led the heart Q to the K. One of the declarers saw what might be a very easy way to make the contract. If the diamond finesse would work, he could score five tricks in that suit, plus two in clubs and two in hearts, without ever monkeying with the spades. So he went right after the diamonds.

Of course, when East won the diamond J with his K, he returned the heart 9 to the A. South then had only eight sure tricks in sight without trying for a spade. When he did that, leading the J, West scored with his A and ran the setting tricks in hearts.

The other declarer saw that West's only possible re-entry, if he had six hearts, was the spade A. So to the second trick he led his spade J. The Q and K covered, the 9 was allowed to win, and the 3 to the 10 forced out the A. When West came back then with the heart 10 to the A, South ran all but one of the tricks, solely because he had the foresight to knock out West's re-entry before he played the diamonds to the K which East might and did hold.

Tomorrow's Problem.

	♠ 9 5 4 2 ♥ A Q 7 2 ♦ 10 8 4 ♣ Q 6
♠ A Q 8 ♥ K J 10 5 3 ♦ 9 6 ♣ J 10 4	W. N. E. S.	♠ 7 3 ♥ 9 4 ♦ A Q 7 5 3 ♣ 9 8 3 2

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

What is the correct defense on this deal against South's 4-Spades if he had first bid clubs, and East and West had named their red suits?

MAKES COURTHOUSE AVAILABLE FOR LODGING SOLDIERS HERE

Richland county commissioners yesterday made the courthouse available as sleeping quarters for soldiers passing through the city and said they expected "all county officials to comply" with the "open house" order.

The commissioners' resolution said the action was taken "owing to reports reaching this office of dissatisfaction on the part of certain officials with reference to the shelter afforded soldiers recently in the courthouse.

Clerk P. S. Carroll of the board of commissioners said "one or two officials" had complained to the commissioners after six or eight army supply officers were permitted to sleep in the common pleas courtroom Wednesday night.

While the officials were not identified, it was understood they complained only because they had money and other valuables in their offices and were afraid to have the courthouse open during the night.

Commissioners explained that the soldiers would only use the courtrooms and corridors which are open anyway. They told the officials who complained to lock their money in safes or take it out of the building overnight.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—With the often pontifical and esoteric pronouncements of Walter Lippman, this writer frequently disagrees. However, on Tuesday, the Washington Post published an article of his on civilian defense that is a honey.

Johnson

All of us—men, women and children, are vitally concerned with this important phase of our war mobilization. It is one place where everyone can and must do his part. Lippman's analysis of the situation should be read by everyone who wants to assist in the speedy organization of this function on sensible lines. His main point is that, up to this time, the so-called office of civilian defense has been nothing but a ballyhoo and propaganda agency. With the declaration of war all this must go by the board and we must face the very real working problems that lie in this field. Lippman calls on us to exercise personal ingenuity and initiative in meeting the problem. I am attempting to answer that call here.

While I am in no sense an expert, I have had several unusual experiences with closely analogous tasks. The lessons of these experiences ought to be of some value.

As a very young shavetail, through a series of accidents, I became acting quartermaster of the armed forces put in charge of the devastated area of the San Francisco fire and earthquake. Here was a situation completely out of hand of the civil fire, police and medical authorities. The army moved in, established martial law, essential in order to stop looting, set up shelters for the homeless, kitchens and field hospitals, and in short order had the situation in hand, although these particular military units had never been called upon to perform such a job before.

What the army did have there was organization and leaders with a full appreciation of the necessity for prompt and effective action and the initiative and intestinal fortitude to take that action.

In the World war, with no previous experience, we had to set up a draft to mobilize millions of men overnight. This was effected promptly and efficiently by a very small nucleus of regular army officers who were willing to take the responsibility and act promptly. That the effort was successfully executed no one has denied. Its success was primarily due to passing the ball to the civilian leaders in each community and completely decentralizing the effort.

Now the lesson of this is that there is absolutely no limit to what the American people can do for themselves if, first, they are told what is expected of them so that they fully appreciate their responsibility in the matter, and second, they are given sufficient authority to act.

Lippman points out that one of the main things wrong with the present set-up is the confusion of military and civilian responsibilities.

This confusion is understandable. The aerial bombardments and internal sabotage which modern war conditions entail completely alter previous concepts of the army's responsibilities. Civilians under army supervision must perform functions which are purely military. This requires decentralized civilian effort supervised, coordinated and trained by central military authority.

The army can tell the civilians who have volunteered for this work and are pleading for leadership WHO will do WHAT and WHEN, HOW, WHERE and WHY to do it.

U. S. MOVES TO TIGHTEN REIN ON AXIS-BORN

Citizenship Cancellation Bill Is Introduced In Congress.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Congress moved today to tighten citizenship laws in order to get control over an estimated 50,000 naturalized Germans and Italians who assertedly are still loyal to their former Axis governments.

The move came as the house convened to consider a sweeping bill by Rep. Dickstein, (D) N. Y., permitting the attorney general to institute citizenship cancellation proceedings against any naturalized American "whose conduct establishes his political allegiance to a foreign state."

The measure was brought up as leaders drove to complete all immediately essential war legislation by the end of the week so that members can get at least a short Christmas vacation.

With the bill giving President Roosevelt vital war time powers and other war measures already enacted since hostilities opened, congress at last started to see daylight through the maze of war time legislation. Matters still slated for early disposal were:

1. A bill to tighten the foreign agent registration law to compel not only agents but those affiliated with foreign political groups to register and file copies of all propaganda.

2. A $500,000,000 appropriation bill, mostly for defense housing and community facilities in crowded defense areas.

3. A far-reaching bill to permit the government to take over all radio, wire service, or other forms of rapid communication in war areas should such a step become necessary to military operations.

Meanwhile in the senate a six-man committee was appointed to draft a price control bill which members predicted will be much lighter than the house-approved version of the anti-inflation measure.

Dickstein, in urging speedy approval of his citizenship bill said bluntly that it was aimed at "50,000 or more Axis residents who came here since Hitler's rise to power and became American citizens only for the purpose of creating trouble."

The bill was approved by the house immigration committee and sent to the floor by a unanimous action of the rules committee so little opposition was anticipated.

Roosevelt Signs $10,000,000,000 Army, Navy Bill

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt today signed into law the bill carrying $10,077,000,000 in appropriations and contract authority to expand the already huge production program for the army and navy.

The measure, providing funds for increases in ordnance equipment, essential supplies for an army of 2,000,000 men, and funds and contract authority for 800 naval patrol vessels, reached the White House only late yesterday.

It provides $9,283,000,000 in cash and $794,000,000 in contract authority.

AUTO ACCIDENT ENDS IN DEATH

Philip Klein, 64, Dies Nine Weeks After Being Hit By a Car In City.

Richland county's traffic death toll jumped to 30 deaths today as Philip Klein, 64, of 154 Arthur avenue died as the result of injuries received when struck by an automobile at the intersection of Sturges and Glessner avenues on Oct. 17.

Richland County's 1941 Traffic Toll

This date last Year—18

Klein's death, which was the fifth in the city for the year, occured late yesterday just nine weeks after he was struck by an auto operated by T. A. Heldebrand, 333 Ohio street. Police reports at the time of the accident stated that Klein had received only severe bruises and cuts. Members of the Klein family said today that physicians believed death was due to internal injuries received in the accident.

Recording of the county's 30th traffic death makes this year's total 12 higher than on the same day in 1940.

Born Aug. 9, 1877, in Sandusky, Klein moved to Mansfield while a child. He was employed by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company for the past 19 years, working in the sheet metal department.

Surviving are his widow, Barbara, and a daughter, Martha Klein of Chillicothe.

The body was taken to the Wappner funeral home where services will be conducted Saturday at 1 p. m. by Henry Keller, elder of the Christian Apostolic church. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

STAGE WALKOUT

Steel Workers at Youngstown Strike; Tie Up Production.

YOUNGSTOWN —(AP)—Youngstown Sheet & Tube company's rod and wire mill at Struthers was shut down shortly before midnight by a walkout which John L. Mayo, district director of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, declared was entirely unauthorized.

About 1,800 men are idle in the mill, which has heavy defense work. Company officials declined to comment, and workmen characterized the work stoppage as a "holiday" and not a "strike," attributing it to an alleged failure of the company to settle grievances arising from an "incentive system" established last Saturday.

Suspect Identified By Employes In Recent Akron Robbery.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Two employes of C. H. Yeager and company, Akron, today identified a suspect in a police lineup as one of three men who robbed them of $21,800 in Akron Dec. 8, it was reported by Detective Sergeant Joseph H. Munley.

Those identifying the 38-year-old suspect were Edward P. Mueller, 41, a clerk, and John Neff, 38, store credit manager, who with a third employe were robbed as they approached an Akron bank to deposit store receipts.

SENDS HONORABLE DECORATION BACK TO 'HONORABLE' JAPANESE

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — What Glenn Skogman told honorable Japanese about honorable decorations had a certain finesse about it which comes only with practice.

Two years ago the 37-year-old East Clevelander, a former navy man, fired a decoration back to the Italian government.

Yesterday he wrapped up a couple of decorations and "with resentment" addressed them to Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, erstwhile Japanese ambassador to the United States.

Skogman reminded the admiral that in 1923, when he "happened to be visiting Tokyo" while in the merchant marine, he found himself "in a position to render aid and assistance to your country and its people" during an earthquake, for which he received the Japanese order of the Red Cross.

And in 1927 he was given the Japanese order of the Rising Sun, second class, as a token of "hands across the sea to endure to the end of the world."

Skogman said "I am not alone returning these decorations with resentment, but I am determined to spend as much time as possible in an effort to avenge the barbarous treatment accorded us as a peace-loving nation."

Now a chemist with an electric company, Skogman served in the navy during the first World war, after his size fooled a recruiting officer into thinking he was much older than 14. The Italian decoration was given him for rescuing six Italians in the Chinese rebellion of 1927.

Recommends Appointment of Capt. Kelly's Son to West Point.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— In an unusual and dramatic tribute, President Roosevelt today wrote a letter to whoever may be the president of the United States in 1956, urging appointment of the son of Capt. Colin P. Kelly, jr., to the military academy at West Point.

Capt. Kelly is the American army flyer who sacrificed his life Dec. 9 in sinking the Japanese battleship Haruna, off Luzon in the Philippines.

Laff-a-Day

"I wanted to marry one of them once, but her father wouldn't break up the set!"

There may be war over most of the world, but Nature will do her best to make it a bright Christmas next week with the best "Christmas star" in the past 200 years. The "star" will be Venus, which isn't a star at all but a planet. It will reach its greatest brilliance during Christmas week when it can be seen in the southwest in daylight. If skies are clear it will gleam Christmas eve with a brilliance reminiscent of the first Christmas when the Wise Men followed the star to Bethlehem. Venus presents this spectacle at Christmas time only once every two centuries, according to astronomers at Perkins observatory near Delaware.

The practical side of office training is now being obtained by six Senior high school girls through volunteer service in the Red Cross executive offices. Scheduled to receive diplomas at the January graduation exercises the sextet was excused from classes to do part-time Red Cross clerical work in view of the present emergency and the fact their high school course has prepared them for such service. The group includes Miariam Durig, Eileen Smith, Doris Stafford, Gretchen Gehl, Sally Russell and Mary Alice Mitchell.

The special defense meeting of city council last night sounded more like a fruit growers' convention than a conference to determine a defense set-up. Practically every member of council had something to say about the possibility of vital city facilities being blown skyhigh by explosives. Instead of referring to the explosive as TNT, dynamite, a bomb or such, council members insisted on calling them "pineapples." The word "pineapple" was mentioned more than any other word at last night's meeting.

Some persons believe that Christmas isn't complete without a Christmas tree but Mansfield police believe that someone has been too enthusiastic in their search for one. A Lida street housewife called police headquarters today to inform them that someone had chopped down one of her favorite pine trees at the corner of her home. Police promised to search for the vandals responsible for the act.

Richland, Six Other Counties Have AAA Injunctions.

The restraining order granted last Friday by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston to enjoin federal AAA officials from collecting the 40-cent wheat penalty was among seven similar temporary orders that have been issued by Ohio judges, according to Russell T. Kiko, chairman of the Ohio Marketing Quota Protest association.

A temporary order was handed down in Erie county the same day Judge Huston issued the order here. Other counties in which collections of the penalty has been halted included Stark, Union, Franklin, Mercer and Ashland.

William Lemke, one of the attorneys in the suit filed here, said the Stark and Union county actions would be taken to the U. S. district court.

MANSFIELD HAS 23 PER CENT IN WAR JOBS

Chamber of Commerce Survey Reveals National Average 15 Per Cent.

Mansfield is ahead of the national parade in extent of industrial man-power directed toward defense production, it was revealed today by a Chamber of Commerce survey of industrial plants.

While approximately 15 per cent of the total industrial capacity of the United States is now engaged in defense work, the survey showed that 23 per cent of the total number of persons employed in Mansfield are busy with defense production.

The report, published in the Chamber of Commerce bulletin shows that there are 11,710 men and women engaged in Mansfield industry today, as compared with 10,400 one year ago and 10,673 two years ago. Of the number today employed, 2,695 are engaged in defense work.

The national figure is expected to increase rapidly, as more and more industries complete the job of converting their facilities to defense production. Thirty per cent of national industrial capacity will be producing for defense within a year, it is estimated.

The Mansfield figure will move upward sharply, too, it is pointed out by John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce. The next three months will represent a "conversion period" for a number of Mansfield plants now busy with the re-tooling and re-equipping of factories necessary before work can start on some defense orders.

Other factors concerning Mansfield industry and business listed in the bulletin were:

New car sales in November totalled 123, a decrease of 61 per cent from November, 1940; bank clearances were $10,051,860, a gain of 16 per cent; postal receipts, up 5 per cent; industrial employment up 11 per cent; mercantile employment, 2,067, down 4 per cent; car loadings, up 17 per cent, and county relief case load, 289, a decrease of 37 per cent.

Acrobat Dancing, Chorus Numbers Highlight Show

Breaking a jump between Chicago and the eastern seaboard to play a benefit performance for the Mansfield chapter of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the A. B. Marcus, "Revue Continental," opened a two-day engagement at the Ohio theater yesterday before an audience enthused by its glittering chorus parades and spectacular acrobatic dancing.

The show was remarkable for the dancing of an Australian dance team, Latasha and Laurence, and the acrobatic contortions of a dancing bit of femininity from China and also of another girl dancing star, Ha Cha San.

Leon Miller, dance director of the show, also took the spotlight to do a turn introducing "Walking the Dog" and "Balling the Jack," two forms of dancing popular some years back, and the more recent jitterbug craze of trucking.

The revue presented Sparky Kaye, comedian, in an unusual bit of pantomime performed to recordings, the Three Chords in imitations of musical instruments and Ruth Durell and Ed McCurdy as soloists. Bob White acted as master of ceremonies.

Proceeds from the Wednesday performance will be used by the Veterans of Foreign Wars for their relief work among needy families this winter.

EXPLAINS WAR CURB ON U. S. WEATHER DATA

Government Says Detailed Forecasts Would Be of Help To Enemy.

Restrictions on weather forecasts by press and radio, established by the United States weather bureau on instructions from the War Department, were explained in a statement issued today by the weather bureau.

Radio stations henceforth may not broadcast temperatures or other information on local weather conditions, it was explained, because a few such broadcasts would provide information of military signifance to interested enemies.

Newspapers may continue to publish weather news as heretofore, but the context of the bureau's bulletins to newspapers will be somewhat more restricted. For example, immediate local forecasts may be published, but forecasts for extended periods may not be used.

In explanation of its imposition of the radio restriction, the bureau issued this statement:

"The objective of restrictions on weather broadcasts by radio is to prevent long distance transmission on any weather data whatever, which might be of value to enemies of the United States. These restrictions include radio announcements of local temperatures and other descriptions of local weather because a very few broadcasts of such information, picked up by interested enemies, would reveal to a skilled meteorologist both actual and impending weather changes of probable military signifance.

"In cases of severe weather such as storms, heavy snows, destructive frosts, or other conditions requiring public precautions or likely to impede operations of industry or transportation, forecasts will be telegraphed or telephoned directly to radio broadcasting stations with specific authority in each case to waive the restrictions and put these warnings on the air.

"Otherwise, the weather bureau asks broadcasters' co-operation on the principle that the less said about weather the better for the national defense."

ROAD MATERIAL FIGURES ASKED

City, County Told To Submit Estimates This Week on Basic 1942 Needs.

State and county highway engineers and city street officials were warned today by the federal public roads administration that they must have their estimate for basic materials for 1942 ready this week or face a chance of not getting them.

The warning was relayed to county, city, and district highway offices by State Highway Director Hal G. Sours, who said he asked that the figures be turned in this week.

County Engineer Howard Sword submitted his request for a $90,000 WPA-sponsored bridge project several days ago and said the county was "well prepared" for the emergency with a supply of stone and other road materials.

District Highway Engineer Vance Grimes could not be reached today at Ashland for a statement on the 1942 state highway plans for the Richland county area.

The state highway department at Columbus announced, however, that R. K. McNamara of Delaware was the low bidder on a project calling for grading of 6.1 miles of state route between Mt. Gilead and Galon in Morrow county. The Delaware contractor's bid was $33,301.

FABRIC EXPERTS RECOMMEND SUPER SUDS

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—Better Fabrics Testing Bureau, widely-known authorities on all textile and fabric subjects, say "Wash rayons, silks, and woolens in Super Suds." Here are their expert instructions:

Test a small patch in plain water for color-fastness. If color runs, it's not washable. (Test woolens in soapy water.)

Wash garments separately, by hand.

Use lukewarm suds as follows: Dissolve Super Suds completely in warm water, then add cold water to get lukewarm suds.

Do not soak. Wash quickly and gently. Do not rub, wring or twist. Woolens especially shrink from rubbing—avoid any excessive handling while wet.

Rinse thoroughly, gently, in clean, lukewarm water.

Roll in towel, but don't leave there. Never dry woolens in excessive heat or direct rays of sun.

Shape garment over ironing board before ironing. Use a moderate iron.

Certain types of weaves and prints should never be washed. Many makers guarantee washability.

Look for this when you buy.

KIND TO HANDS...LESS SNEEZY DUST THAN OTHER LEADING BRANDS!

PARK BECOMES PART OF CITY

Commissioners O. K. Addition of Liberty Park and Two Residence Properties.

Liberty park and two residence properties west of the park along Fifth avenue today became a part of the city of Mansfield, providing the area with police and fire protection.

County commissioners approved the annexation at the request of City Solicitor Marion D. Ward after a public hearing yesterday at the courthouse brought no protests and attracted no one..

Built during the past seven years by public-spirited residents of the northeast section of the city, Liberty park contains 23.40 acres. The two private properties annexed with it made a total of nearly 28 acres added to the city. The properties are occupied by Andrew Karsmizki and Albert King.

The park virtually surrounds the private land and by annexing the entire section along Fifth avenue north of Grace street, the city added an almost square section of land to its area.

City council voted favorably on the annexation last June after residents of the park district sought the annexation so there would be more protection for it.

The park now has a bathhouse and a large shelter house in addition to the swimming pool, tennis courts and baseball diamond.

The Walls Came Tumbling + +

By Joseph McCord
(Copyright, 1941.)

CHAPTER XX

"Same here. I don't often go to the movies, but when I heard they had resurrected that old yarn it roused my curiosity enough to see it. Remember how absurdly Victorian and elaborate the writing was? They retained the flavor of the dialogue, but I was surprised to find that it didn't sound so impossible as one would think. By way of deciding if the original was so primly extravagant as I remembered, I hunted up a copy and glanced through it."

"And was it?"

"Rather! I always disliked that fellow Darcy for his name if nothing else . . . Mr. Fitzgerald Darcy! Can you imagine anything more precious and rarified. And the snooty way he proposed to the heroine, telling her that he had struggled in vain against his better judgment, but was forced to declare how ardently he admired her. I can't remember that he slapped his forehead, but the girl should have. I can't believe there were such pompous asses even in polite society."

Carol was obliged to smile. "It seems to have you worried," she said.

"It has. Because I've been wondering if Darcy behind his Dundreadly whiskers . . . he must have worn a pair . . . wasn't rather human after all. If he sounded like an utter prig, it was because it was more or less the style. The same as it must be the style now to act . . . dumb."

"So what?" Carol attempted to display a polite interest although she had no idea whatever of his meaning.

"Why, I'm on the same spot that poor devil was, only I can't express my sentiments nearly so well as he did. I'm one of the moderns . . . and dumber than most."

"I'm afraid I don't get your point."

Carol knew suddenly that his jaw was set in the same grim line it had been when she first saw him, the afternoon he came limping into Dr. Silverthorne's office.

"No good," he repeated stubbornly.

"No?" she murmured.

"No. I can't say it right, Carol. It seems to me I never have been able to say anything right to you. Not from that first day we met!" It came out so impetuously that she scarcely noticed his calling her "Carol." His tone was more deliberate now. "What I'm trying to say is that I'm in the same boat with Fitz . . . can't keep from telling you."

"Telling me what, please?"

"That I feel . . . that I care the same way. Incidentally, I'm very much in earnest.

"You can hardly expect me to believe that." Carol's voice was level and cool. There was nothing in her face to tell Chester whether she was offended at his remark. She might have been faintly amused.

"Of course I don't expect you to believe it," he returned almost gruffly. "I didn't believe such things could happen. It seems they do. I know now that I went off the deep end from the first. I'm still there."

"Struggling in vain?"

Chester blushed but his face being in the shadow Carol could not see this reaction.

"There you are!" he exclaimed almost angrily. "It's a fair sample of what you've done to me. You don't know what I— Of course that was a fool way to lead up to what I wanted to tell you, what I've been wanting to tell you for days and days. But I couldn't come right out and say it, could I? Be fair."

"I don't know." Carol shook her head. The old bewildered look was in her brown eyes. "I don't understand at all."

"And I don't either. I only know that I have fallen in love with you and that nothing else seems to matter . . . Not even what you may happen to think," he added defiantly. "Will you at least give me credit for believing in my own sincerity?"

Instead of answering at once, Carol continued to look at him soberly. The fingers of her hands, folded on her lap, tightened slightly. It was the only sign of emotion she exhibited.

"Since you mentioned that book, it begins to come back to me," she said deliberately. "Do you remember the rest of the incident you were trying to quote? It seems to me that I do."

"In a general way. But Jane Austen's out of the window. Besides, I'm not trying to break up anybody's romance. Or am I? Look here, Carol! I've the right to know, I think. Is there somebody else?"

* * *

When Chester Dennison demanded to be told whether another man stood between him and Carol, his entire attitude underwent a change. He leaned forward in his seat until Carol was able to see his face clearly. There was intense eagerness in it, almost boyish. It softened the answer on Carol's lips.

"I am not engaged, if that's what you mean," she answered simply.

"That's what I had to know." Chester relaxed with a deep sigh of relief. "I had a great-grandfather who was a cavalry captain in the Civil war . . . a hard-bitten old chap, so family legends say. He craved a fight. He never asked for quarter or gave it. I think I may inherit that streak. If there's a chance ever to win your love, I'm fighting all the way. I hope that's modern enough. Perhaps I mean plain enough."

"I understand what you mean."

Carol was surprised at her own calmness. It wasn't the first time she had heard a man say he loved her. She even found herself thinking that Mr. Dennison had put all the fervor into his declaration that any woman could ask for, or dream of. She hadn't answered his question about believing him sincere; yet, strangely enough, it did not occur to her to doubt his sincerity. But it left her curiously unmoved. She found herself considering the matter rather judicially, as though it concerned Chester Dennison and some other woman. She scarcely appreciated the import of his next words.

"Thanks. That's more than I have any right to expect. But it did happen to me and it might happen to you. I'm going on thinking that. A chance is all I ask for."

Almost to her dismay, Carol found herself thinking of the elaborate dialogue in the Austen book. She realized that she must make her position perfectly plain, but the right words, the natural ones, evaded her hopelessly. The whole thing was still so illogical that it brought a contemplative reaction rather than confusion.

"I hope I appreciate your feelings," she began a trifle uncertainly, "but I can't help thinking . . ."

"Thinking what?"

"That it's all rather against your will. That you wish it hadn't happened that way . . . the same as I."

"But I don't feel that way!" he replied hotly. "It's just because it—well, I guess it bowled me over. I'm no cub exactly, even if I do act like one. I've been around. I've met women and been interested in them plenty. I don't want to make you think I haven't. I've planned on marriage when the time came, if ever. But I never did fancy I'd tumble head over heels in love with any girl. And, now, I have. I've reasoned it out to my satisfaction."

"Have you?"

SPREADS "TRENCH MOUTH"

GLASGOW—(U.P.)— Kissing may be one of the chief reasons of a wartime malady known as "Trench Mouth," which has been claiming many victims in West Scotland. Other suggested causes are the use of badly-wiped cups and lack of vitamin C—found in green vegetables and tomatoes.

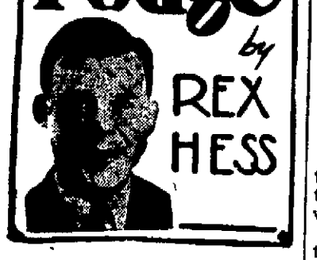
Sport Podge

by REX HESS



Two girls have forced Bud Windsor to move over and take a back seat as this city's most persistent heaver of the mineralite on the Colony bowling alleys

Since they took up bowling seriously early this fall, Juanita Miles and Lois Williams have MISSED JUST ONE DAY of kegling They're still apologizing to the management for their absence from the alleys on that occasion.

And their daily stint doesn't stop at a game or two.. Anything up to 15 lines marks their quota for an afternoon's kegling.

* * *

And how have they been getting along? Rusty McBride has been keeping the eye on their scores, and, says he:

"For the first few weeks they averaged around 85. Now they're getting close to 120."

Here were their lines for the matinee league Tuesday:

Miles	141	128	110
Williams	124	142	157

* * *

It all goes to show, I suppose, that if you keep at a thing long enough, and work hard enough, you're bound to improve. But that day after day stuff is too much for me. I'm entirely content to rest on my 20-year, 104 average for one game.

I was all set Tuesday afternoon to go running for a phone, and telling our photographer to come a-running to the bowling alleys.

Donna Schuster had already marked up 12 straight strikes, spaced over two games, and the way her bullet ball had been blasting those maples off the alleys there was plenty of reason to anticipate a 300 in that second game.

But someone had to tell her the score in strikes, and that broke the spell. The next frame came up a miss, and it was all over.

I wouldn't say she didn't know the score, or that telling her about it threw her off the pace, but I'm superstitious enough to believe that those things bring bad luck.

All this talk of the sterling performances on the alleys by women keglers may dismay the male kindling collectors, so for their benefit I'm happy to report that Mansfielders last Sunday were looking at one of the top A. B. C. tournament bowlers of recent years.

The Bowler's Journal, just off the press, reports that Walter Wellman of Bucyrus is tied for 30th position in A. B. C. averages of the past four years with 200.19. Another Ohioan, Eddie Kawolics, the Mad Russian of Findlay, leads the list with 207.32.

And in between are such guys as Ned Day, Joe Falcaro, Andy Varipapa, Walter Ward, and more top-fighters, and in the list immediately trailing Wellman is Hank Marino, the Milwaukee hot-shot. Wellman rolled 247-224-226—697 in his match here Sunday.

* * *

There are other yarns that I could tell
Of bowling's this and that.
But if I did, someone would yell:
"That guy's an alley rat!"

I always get more kick out of kegling of beginners than I do from that of the guys who know how.

So one day recently I was gladly telling one and all that Lightnin' Jones, the southpaw slinger of the Mansfield gridiron Tygers, crooked-armed his way to a 139 the first time he ever saw an alley.

"That's nothing," said my noble assistant, and the Madison Rams chief booster, Bud Sprunger, "the first game I ever rolled was a 175, and I've got Fritz Howell to prove it. But I never hit it again, and I'm happy now to break a hundred."

Some guys are always taking the joy out of life.

Madison Plays Butler Tonight

Madison's Rams, unbeaten by any team in the Richland county league, moves to Butler tonight for a non-league game with the Bulldogs.

* * *

Victorious over Lexington, Union and Shiloh and beaten by Crestline, the Rams will face a team which has lost to Lexington, 39-31.

Tuesday Butler took over the Bellville Bluejays while the Rams were playing Crestline.

Scoring Feats Take Cage Spot

Toledo Star Flips In 15 Field Goals, 5 Fouls.

(By Associated Press)

Individual scoring feats captured the spotlight in last night's ten-game basketball program involving Ohio college teams.

Most spectacular was bespectacled Bob Gerber's 35 points in leading Toledo university to a 57-31 win over Albion (Mich.) college. Gerber, six foot, four inch center, flipped in 15 field goals and five free throws as the Rockets chalked up their fourth straight victory of the season.

* * *

Bob Geist, Capital university center, contributed 25 points as the Lutherans began their Ohio conference campaign with a 63-58 victory over Denison.

* * *

Ohio teams won five out of eight games with out-of-state opponents.

The University of Oregon's crack aggregation handed Xavier university a 38-25 licking at Cincinnati—the first defeat for the Musketeers.

The only other Ohio loser to an outside foe was Bowling Green State university which suffered its first defeat of the season at the hands of Michigan Normal college in Ypsilanti, Mich., 43 to 39.

* * *

Dayton swamped Wichita, 42-9, in a rough game at Dayton. The visitors lost three players on personal fouls.

* * *

Akron university's Zippers easily outplayed Washington and Jefferson college from Washington, Pa., 51-36 at Akron. Forward Johnny Lutch paced Akron with 17 points.

Overcoming a halftime 17-19 disadvantage, Miami university downed Hanover of Madison, Ind., 51-35, in a contest at Oxford in which 17 personal fouls were called on each team.

Baldwin-Wallace squeezed out a 38-36 decision over Detroit Tech at Detroit.

Don Blair, Kent State guard, scored 17 points as Kent defeated Hiram, 62-36, at Kent.

Rio Grande's touring basketeers dropped a 60 to 20 decision to High Point at High Point, N. C.

Tonight's schedule: Heidelberg at Ohio Northern, Ohio U. at Mt. Union, Defiance at De Sales, Ohio Wesleyan at Ball State, Washington & Jefferson at Youngstown, Rio Grande at Guilford, N. C., and Cincinnati at Marietta.

Stauffer Paces Westie-A League

H. Stauffer turned in a 582 total last night to set the pace for the Westinghouse "A" bowling league at Colony alleys on games of 212-168-202. Henry Heiser had high game of 222.

PLAY 16 GAMES

WEST POINT, N. Y. — The Army basketball team will play a 16-game schedule this winter, opening with Lafayette Jan. 14 and closing with the traditional game against Navy March 7.

KEEPS PROGRAM

COLUMBUS — (NS) — The war will result in no curtailment of the athletic program at the state's largest school, Ohio State University Director L. W. St. John declared today.

OHIO FIGHTERS INVITED TO NAVY BENEFIT BOUTS

CLEVELAND — (NS) — Invitations were issued today to Jackie Wilson and Lem Franklin, Cleveland fighters, to perform at Los Angeles Jan. 16 on a "huge boxing card" for the Navy Relief society. The proceeds will be used directly for the aid of dependents of Pearl Harbor casualties.

Wilson would be matched against Red Cochrane, welterweight champion, who enlisted in the navy recently. Cochrane would not be risking his championship. Franklin would meet Turkey Thompson.

Birdie Brands Hit 3031 Total

But Schlitz Beers Win One Game To Keep Lead.

Bissman Birdie Brands banged out another 3,000 last night in the City "A" kegling league, 3,031 to be exact, but that didn't scare the league-leading Schlitz Beers who took advantage of a 34-pin handicap to salvage the last game and maintain a four-game lead over the Birds.

Bissman's marked up a 1088 in the second game. Ferrell Hipp led the scoring parade with a 691 total on games of 236-200-25a, while Art Hilborn checked in with 654 on 215-224-215, and Johnny Leppo turned in a 279 game between lines of 174 and 146.

* * *

Orange Street Cafe came within three pins of the 3,000 mark as Orlie Grable rolled a 608, Fritz Vogel a 648, and Art Thomas 624.

Other 600 scores in the league were: Al Lettiker 625, Henry Heiser 600, Jim Orr 616, V. Jones 605, Sherm Wentz 645, Henry Michaels 655, Harold Selby 606, Duke Weber 627.

Tyger Reserves Edge Simpson

High school reserves barely edged John Simpson's scrappy quintet 24-22 in the preliminary game to the donkey basketball jamboree at the high school gym last night.

* * *

Simpson racked up eight points late in the third quarter to close the gap at 20-22, and tied the score midway in the final period. McBride won the game for the high school sophomores by stealing the ball and dribbling in for sucker shots for the last two reserve buckets.

* * *

The donkey game, with 10 Tyger gridders astride the donks, was an hilarious affair, and the 350 customers went away with their faces sore from laughing.

DICKEY BEST FIELDER

NEW YORK—(INS)—Bill Dickey may be nearing the end of the trail as catcher for the New York Yankees, but the official fielding figures for last season dispute the belief. The tall Arkansan led all the regular catchers in his circuit in fielding with an average of .994, or two points better than Rick Ferrell of the St. Louis Browns.

PICK SOOSE

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Billy Soose, former middleweight champion who outgrew his division, was 2-1 choice to defeat Jimmy Reeves, Cleveland's Negro title aspirant, in the feature bout tonight of the final professional show of the year at the Arena.

Betty Hicks Newell Named Woman Athlete of the Year

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK—(AP)—Betty Hicks Newell, the 105-pound housewife from Long Beach, Cal., who came east to win the national golf title in her first trial, is the woman athlete of the year.

The 20-year-old shotmaker, who already has turned pro and given up all chances of retaining the crown, was placed first by 24 of the 66 sports editors who competed in the Associated Press' annual poll.

* * *

Her 101 points, compiled by giving her three for each first-place ballot, two for second and one for third, shot far ahead of another bride, Mrs. Elwood Cooke, whose tennis campaigning brought her 69 points.

The former Sarah Palfrey Fabyan was ranked the United States No. 1 woman racquet wielder earlier in the week.

Mrs. Newell replaces Alice Marble, professional tennis queen, at the head of the list. Miss Marble, leader in both 1939 and 1940, was inactive much of the time since early spring and she slumped to fifth place with 38 points, in contrast to the 216 of a year ago.

* * *

Third and fourth places went to a pair of young, beauteous swimmers, Nancy Merki nosing out Gloria Callen, 46 to 43.

* * *

Others in the top nine were Patty Berg, golfing professional; Helen Crlenkovich, swimming, and Mrs. Babe Didriksen-Zaharias and Betty Jameson, golf.

For the first time in recent year Sonja Henie Topping, darling of the figure skaters and movies, failed to draw a response from any of the sports critics.

One of the voters, Urban Muenz of the Jamestown, N. D., Sun, gave one vote for Marion Miley, "who always went down fighting, be it in golf or otherwise." Miss Miley, one of the nation's better golfers, was slain as she and her mother surprised robbers in their clubhouse home at Lexington, Ky., late in September.

REFORMATORY CAGERS DOWN AKRON KNIGHTS

Ohio State Reformatory cagers swamped the Akron Knights, 43-31, Tuesday on the Reformatory court behind the shooting of Dalessandro who ranked eight field goals and one foul shot for 17 points.

Aside from the first quarter when the Reformatory cagers scored 12 points to none for the Knights the score was even in each quarter.

STOCK LEADERS LACKING POWER FOR RECOVERY

Rails and Few Industrials Show Resistance; Tax Selling Persists.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Rails and scattered industrials put up a show of resistance in today's stock market but many leaders lacked recovery power.

Heavy tax selling persisted in low-priced issues and numerous new lows for the year were spread over the list. Gains and losses ran to a point or so with the latter at trifle in the majority near the second hour.

The war news provided little speculative inspiration, brokers said, and the inclination of many customers was to limit commitments pending more light on battle operations in the Philippines, Hongkong and Malaya.

Market followers discerned a grain of comfort in the Dun & Bradstreet compilation disclosing bank clearings in 23 cities for the week ended Wednesday reached a new high mark since early October, 1931.

Noted was the federal reserve board estimate that department store inventories rose 35 per cent in value in the year concluded Oct. 31.
